Attorney Declares Habeas Corpus Proceedings Might Free Great Many Defendants

A local attorney threw out a "tip" this morning which may result in further trouble for the circuit courts, at present sans expense money. Whether the "tip" was intended as information for fellow attorneys is not known; however, the information volunteered has been branded as "plausible" by several members of the legal fraternity.

The attorney holds that there are now several men in prison here awaiting trial by jury in the circuit court, although the courts have no money with which to conduct trials. It is declared that these men are being deprived of their liberty; that they are theoretically innocent and entitled to the speedy trial granted them in the constitution.

Why, then, contends the attorney, could not these men secure attorneys, bring habeas corpus proceedings, and demand either an immediate trial or release?

And one of these days this very point may be raised in circuit court," the attorney adds.

He went on to cite a Montana case where the courts had exhausted their expense account and were unable to conduct trials for this reason. Habeas corpus proceedings were begun in favor of a man charged with a felony, the supreme court holding that the man should be freed in case he was not given a speedy trial. The supreme court ordered that the case be tried within a certain time, and if this was not done, the defendant should be discharged.

"Unfortunately, the authorities do not show what was finally done with the case," says the attorney.

He adds that undoubtedly this theory would not apply to defendants who are awaiting jury trial and who are out on bail.

HALF OF CUBAN PRESENT CROP ALREADY SOLD

Will Be Hard for Foreign Buyers to Obtain Much Sugar Without Higher Prices

That the entrance of foreign buyers, notably the Entente nations, into the sugar market is practically certain, and that when they do start buying they will have to pay prices higher than those ruling on March 3, was the opinion expressed in the weekly market letter of the Czarinkov-Rondia Company on that date. The market resume issued by the well-known firm follows, in full:

"At last week's close the market became firmer, with operators securing a moderate quantity of Cubas in prompt positions at 4c c.f. (5.92c), and refiners taking all the Porto Ricos available at prices ranging from 4.83c to 4.92c landed, according to position. Meet Higher Views.

"Continued strength, coupled with a necessity on the part of the domestic trade to provide for future requirements of refined sugars, resulted in a sharp advance, beginning with refiners purchasing all the Cubas procurable at 4.96c c.f. (5.98c) on 29th ult., and yesterday meeting the higher views of sellers by paying 4.55c c.f. (5.57c) not only for March-April shipment, but also for some Cubas afloat. Our spot quotation has consequently risen to 5.27c, basis 96 deg., which represents an advance of .25c per pound on the week.

"Even at this advance in values the reported business aggregates only about 46,000 tons Cubas, 20,000 tons Porto Ricos and 4000 tons full-duty sugars, making a total insufficient for one week's present rate of melttings, especially if the 9000 tons secured by operators is taken into account. Latter buyers also paid 4.3125c c.f. (5.33c) for May shipment Cubas.

"Rumors circulating here during the past fortnight concerning business in raws for shipment to Europe on the basis of about 3.55c f.o.b. lack confirmation, and with local buyers in Cuba paying 3.70c f.o.b. it certainly appears doubtful if anything approaching 30,000 tons (the quantity mentioned) could have been put through, although European buyers no doubt gladly would have taken it, as stocks in both United Kingdom and France have reached a very low level, and the reappearance of those buyers in the market is now looked for at almost any moment.

"That our market should have displayed such decided strength in the absence of a large foreign business makes the situation all the stronger, and with the capacity of refiners heavily taxed to fulfill domestic and foreign contracts heretofore entered into, and Cuba having already sold practically half of her current crop at very remunerative prices, it will doubtless prove difficult for foreign buyers to obtain appreciable quantities unless they are willing to pay higher prices than those now ruling for f.o.b. sugars. "Refiners' meetings at United States Atlantic ports this week amounted to 72,000 tons, and adding about 10,000 tons for New Orleans, gives the large figures of 82,000 tons handled in that period. A continuance of operations at this rate, which it is reasonable to expect, would require 320-350,000 tons of raws per month, and with present scarcity of steamer tonnage it is hardly possible that arrivals can sufficiently exceed present melting requirements to permit of any accumulation of stocks by refiners anywhere near the rate attained in bygone years. All indications therefore point to a very strong situation when the usual brisk summer demand for refined makes its appearance.

"The weather in Cuba has continued dry, and there are complaints throughout the island of tonnage of cane per acre falling below original estimates, but in view of the higher yield obtained, it is yet too early to forecast any reduction in estimates of the island's production this campaign."

Light Sidelights on Police Court Scenes

Because his sister-in-law, Louisa, frustrated his plans to drive company home Monday night, Manuel Florence of Kakaako gave her a black eye. The eye was on display at the police court. Manuel's plan of getting rid of the guests was to switch off the lights and leave them in darkness, but Louisa objected to the method. She approached the switch, though warned by the irate relative not to, and it was when she came too near that Manuel struck her.

Manuel admitted the deed Tuesday morning, saying that the temptation to carry out his threat was too great when she insisted on switching on the light. The entire family attended the trial and left the courtroom together, apparently with all differences settled. Manuel was fined $5.

Because he insisted on having his picture taken side by side with a Russian girl Monday, H. Watson, a soldier, was sentenced to pay a fine of $25.

The girl, seated on the witness stand, told of Watson's actions, stating she had stopped to have her picture taken at one of the street photographers places Monday, and that Watson had proposed he make an additional setting for the picture by having his head on her shoulder.

"When I finally ran," said the girl, "Watson followed me and called me bad names."

"Watson told the judge it was queer if he had called the girl names as he was not in the habit of so doing, but the local agents, from Lorrin A. Thurston.

The message reads: "Honolulu's guarantee proposition is highly appreciated. It is characterized by the steamship authorities as generous, but impossible to accept, as the steamers require overhauling now, also in the fall. It is proposed to reopen the service in December, continuing until April or longer. Will announce details on my arrival. The company's advertising of winter service begins immediately. Am returning on the Great Northern."

"Show Them We Do Care." Commenting on the situation, Mr. Waldron this morning said that "shooting the guarantee alone will give the Great Northern Pacific people a more favorable disposition toward us, and will show them we do care to have the service continued."

First news of the company's decision to take of the Great Northern until fall, reached here last night, in a cable from Mr. Thurston to the Advertiser, and advices received shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the local agents, Fred L. Waldron, Ltd.

Mr. Thurston's wire said the Great Northern Pacific management rejected the offer of a $25,000 guarantee against a possible deficit, made by the committee of local businessmen for five more round-trips of the Great Northern.

Must Be Gone Over. The company's reasons for refusing the offer are stated to be the necessity for laying the big liners up for overhauling. The statement in a morning paper that the steamers will "resume Alaskan service" is an error, say the local agents. They will operate twice a week between San Francisco and Portland only.

The Great Northern is due to leave San Francisco at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and to sail from San Pedro at the same hour tomorrow afternoon, docking here at 10 o'clock March 31, a week from today. She is bringing Imperial Potentate J. Putnam Stevens of the Shriners and a big delegation of prominent mainland nobles of the order. The big liner will sail from Honolulu at 4 o'clock the afternoon of Tuesday, April 4, instead of 11 o'clock at night, and will bid goodbye to Honolulu until next fall.
